CELEBRITIES OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION.

A correspondent sends us the following description of the portrait gallery lately opened in Paris: "What first strikes one on entering is the noble and manly aspect of the great majority of the subjects of these portraits, most of whom were active members of the Convention, famous for their energy and disregard of human life. Except Marat and Fouché, who are simply hideous, there is not a face here which is not in some way attractive. Even Mirabeau, though strongly marked with the smallpox, has an expression of intense power in his countenance which, doubtless, greatly contributed to the extraordinary effect his said portrait in the collection. The first portrait in the collection is that of Marie Antoinette—a quiet, calm, somewhat proud face, such a sight might have had in her retreat at Trianon, before the revolution broke out. Next come Robespierre, a handsome, smiling, gallantly dressed youth of twenty, painted before his death by his friend David; Couthon, Danton, and Camille Desmoulins, all looking calm and careless, as if the guillotine had no terrors for them. There is a portrait of Andre Chenier, the classical poet, and of Rouget de Lisle, author of the 'Marseillaise'; the latter picture pierced in several places with bayonet thrusts. Mme. Roland, with irregular but attractive features, and Hebert, editor of the infamous Pere Duchesne, come next. There are also portraits of Charlotte Corday, the Princess de Lamballe, Terroir de Mercur, the original 'Gods of Reason', who ended her days in a madhouse; Mme. Tallien, dressed in Amazone; Talleyrand, and Louis Bonaparte father of the present Emperor. —Pull Mall Gazette."

THE TOMB OF WILLIAM RUFUS.—The tomb of William Rufus, in Winchester Cathedral, England, was opened a fortnight ago. The London Telegraph says:

"From their first hasty grave William's remains were, at some time unknown, removed to a sarcophagus near the altar. This sarcophagus occupies an inconvenient situation; and the dean and chapter were desirous, if they found that the sarcophagus contained no human relics, to remove it to another site. The doubt whether it held the dust of Rufus dated from the disturbance of the Cathedral tombs by the Parliamentary soldiers, who used the bones of the dead to break the painted windows. At the restoration the remains thus violated were collected into six chests, ranged on either side of the altar; and one of these actually bore an inscription to the effect that William's remains were there contained. If the sarcophagus had been sacked in 1642, and the frail contents mingled with the ashes of an inferior yet illustrious crowd in the six mortuary chests, there seemed no reason why the obstacle should not be removed from the choir; and this was what the cathedral authorities designed. But the sarcophagus was not empty; it disclosed to the sight of the exploring surgeons a nearly perfect skeleton, presenting evidences of a previous removal, the remains of some insignia of authority, and as one account states, even the remains of the fatal wound. The skeleton is fully preserved to be that of William Rufus, and the relics, after accurate memoranda had been made, were reverently restored to the sarcophagus, whence they are not likely to be removed."

NATIONAL MENDACITY.—It appears to be almost impossible to get at the truth on any subject in this country. The vice of lying has become national. Wherever there is a motive to lie, the lie promptly jumps forth as a spring to be touched to evoke it. A man who honestly desires to reach the truth finds himself hemmed in by embarrassments, perplexities and difficulties. One set of men tell him one thing; another set a different thing. He knows not whom or what to believe. Oral declarations on the one side are met by similar declarations on the other, written evidence by written evidence, oaths by oaths. If the enquirer be a sensible man, he will soon be forced to the conclusion that if there be such a thing as truth, it is to be found far from the witnesses on either side—most probably between and equidistant from both.

There are lies about everything that has a political bearing, about crops, about trade movements, about banks, about industrial enterprises, even about church movements. The American will soon be known the world over as a nation of liars, unless this propensity in its more checked. —Rich. Whig.

DEATH.—We have never read anything more beautiful than the following from the pen of George D. Prentice:

"There is but a breath of air and a beat of the heart betwixt this world and the next. And in the brief suspense, while we feel that death is present with us, that we are powerless and that life is all powerful, and the faint pulsation here is but the prelude of endless life hereafter, we feel in the midst of the stunning clarity about us to befall us that the earth has no compensating good to mitigate the severity of our loss; but there is no grief without some beneficent provision to soften its intensity. When the good and lovely die, the memory of their good deeds, like the moonbeams on the stormy sea, lights up our darkened hearts and lends to the surrounding gloom a beauty so soft, so sweet, that we would not, if we could, dispel the darkness that environs it."

The New York papers are now disclosing the real facts of the "wickedest man" movement, and the pretended West street conversions, and even those most friendly at the commencement of the affair are now denouncing it.

Rev. W. H. Green, now in jail under a sentence of death for poisoning his wife, has been connected a new trial by the Superior Court of Connecticut, on the ground of the discovery of new evidence.

Dr. Stone, the sculptor, now in Rome, has shipped for Washington in a government vessel, the statue of Alexander Hamilton, which has been executed by order of Congress.

MEDICAL.

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL. ESTABLISHED AS A REFUGE FROM QUACKERY. THE ONLY PLACE WHERE A CURE CAN BE OBTAINED.

DR. JOHNSON has discovered the most Certain, Speedy, and only Effective Remedy in the World for Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affection of the Kidneys or Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Langour, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling, Dimness of Sight, or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, No. 6, or Skin, Affections of the Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—those Terrible Disorders arising from Solitary Habits of Youth—secret and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the song of Syrens, to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN. Especially, who have become the victims of solitary vice, the dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entered listening Senators with the thunders of eloquence, or Statesmen to steady the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE. Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of Physical Weakness, Organic Debility, Deformities, speedily cured. In who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS. Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affection, which renders life miserable and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of impurity. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudently? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms both body and mind ensue. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritation, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache, Constipation, a morbid and irritable condition of the System, Drunkenness, and Death.

DR. JOHNSON. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons in London, Graduate of one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and New York, where he has effected some of the most extraordinary cures that were ever known, many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, uniting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits. Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

Disseminate the fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of
